

AMIT TANDON

A master at sharing amusing observational and hugely relatable anecdotes, he jokes about every thing personally painful to him – from marriage to politics to road traffic and even women in general. His style is unassuming but there is nothing casual about the audience's response to him. Switching effortlessly between Hindi and English, Amit's humor is universal – connecting with all segments of audience, be it middle class, middle aged, young-at-heart to young college going crowds.
